

20-Year Payment Life

Many people select the GCU 20-Year Payment Life policy because they pay premiums for only 20 years, and then become the owners of paid-up policies. Even after the policy is paid up, the cash value continues to grow. One of the nice features is that it accumulates cash value faster than Ordinary Whole Life insurance. For this reason, the rates are somewhat higher. The GCU 20-Year Payment Life policy is issued in amounts of $5,000 and above. Issue ages 0-85.

Ordinary Whole Life

Ordinary Whole Life is your best buy when purchasing traditional whole life insurance. You receive the greatest amount of permanent protection for the smallest outlay of premium dollars.

While Ordinary Whole Life premiums are payable for life, many people purchase this plan with the thought of terminating premium payments at retirement and electing a reduced paid-up insurance benefit.

A young person purchasing an Ordinary Whole Life policy can count on a substantial guaranteed cash accumulation later in life. A large sum of whole life protection purchased during the early years provides guaranteed cash reserves for emergencies later on.

The GCU Ordinary Whole Life policy is issued in amounts of $10,000 and above.

With both policies the cash value, in addition to offering loans for emergencies, can provide supplemental income at retirement.

Both policies offer these benefits of permanent insurance:

- ◆ Accumulation of Cash Value
- ◆ Loan Provisions
- ◆ Dividends*

With both policies the following supplemental benefits are available:

- ◆ Accidental Death Benefit
- ◆ Waiver of Premium Benefit Rider

**Dividends, though not guaranteed, have been issued for over 50 consecutive years. If left on deposit to accumulate with interest, dividends can be used to shorten premium paying time.*
